On The Way

Saint Augustine: Pelagianism and Grace

In the Church's tradition, Saint Augustine is often called the "Doctor of Grace." The title comes from his defense of grace against the Pelagians' teaching. Their hyper-exalted view of the human person made grace unnecessary. For if our human nature is still fully intact and perfection is within our reach (as they thought), then we don't need God's grace. Christ provides a good example, and in the end that's all we need.

That view of salvation empties Christ's words and work of meaning. Throughout His ministry our Lord reserved the harshest words for the Pharisees and all who "who trusted in themselves that they were righteous" (Lk 18:9). We are saved by grace, not by our own efforts. Saint Paul, who knew this from hard personal experience, says, "For by grace you have been saved through faith, and this is not from you; it is the gift of God; it is not from works, so no one may boast" (Eph 2:8-9).

Still, we know that some effort on our part is necessary. As Augustine himself preached, "God created us without us: but he did not will to save us without us." So how do these two – God's grace and human freedom – interact?

Most of us view grace as just auxiliary to our own efforts. We do our best and, if that's not enough, grace kicks in. Unfortunately, this leads us to see God's grace as contrary to our freedom; if we could only do better, we wouldn't need Him. Or we think that God's grace needs to be coaxed out of Him, as if He's holding back until we get it right. These errors, while not Pelagianism strictly speaking, are akin to it. They foster a view of God's grace as foreign to and even in competition with our freedom.

The better way to understand the relationship is that God's grace is the overall context and ambit within which our freedom operates. Without His grace, we would have no freedom at all. So, we shouldn't imagine grace and free will as side by side with one another. Nor are they intersecting circles like a Venn diagram. The better image is of our freedom functioning within the circle that is grace. As the Catechism puts it, "The divine initiative in the work of grace precedes, prepares, and elicits the free response of man. Grace responds to the deepest yearnings of human freedom, calls freedom to cooperate with it, and perfects freedom" (CCC 2022).

To defend the dignity of the human person, the Pelagians played down the reality of God's grace. In so doing they presented these two realities as in competition with each other. In reality, it is because of God's grace that we have freedom, and it is by His grace that it is perfected.

All this touches on our Lord's words, "You, therefore, must be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect" (Mt 5:48). What Jesus means here is Christian perfection, being perfectly configured to Him. The Pelagians contended that such perfection is within our reach; we just had to try harder to achieve it. Many still make that mistake, which leads inevitably to discouragement.

The reality is that Christian perfection is impossible on our own. We need His grace to be conformed to Him. Yes, we say our prayers, we receive the sacraments, we strive for holiness. All of this is due to His grace. But then we stumble and fall, which reminds us of our need to rely entirely on His grace. The spiritual life isn't a do-it-yourself program. Christian perfection is in the striving. In T.S. Eliot's words, "For us, there is only the trying. The rest is not our business." Our efforts are the necessary response and cooperation with His grace. We do our inevitably imperfect part and leave the rest to Him.

Adult Faith Formation Classes

The Order of Christian Initiation for Adults (OCIA) program is available for adults who are not Catholic and wish to receive more education in the Faith, especially in preparation for the reception of the sacraments. The program is open to anyone who wishes to learn more about the Catholic faith with the intention of entering the Catholic Church.

The OCIA program for the 2025-2026 year will be held weekly on Wednesdays, and begins on September 3rd, 7:00pm-8:30pm in the Knecht Conference Room at the school and continues through May. We ask that people who intend to enter the Church attend the classes regularly, live in a manner consistent with the faith, and discern prayerfully their calling. If one cannot attend the regular classes on a consistent basis, call the parish for other arrangements.

To register or speak with Father Pavlick about the OCIA program, contact him at 703-532-8815 or frpavlick@stjamescatholic.org.

Dominican Corner

Come and See!

You are invited to join the Mary Magdalene community of Lay Dominicans for prayer, fellowship, and discussion on Sunday, August 17th, from 5:00pm-6:45pm in the Parish House. We meet the third Sunday of every month.

Lay Dominicans are single or married members of the Dominican Order who have responded to a call to live the Dominican way of life in their own families and occupations.

The Dominican charism is one of prayer, study, community, and apostolate. Of these, study is perhaps the most distinctive element, as Dominicans are constantly called to study scripture, the teachings of the Church, and contemporary issues in the light of Faith. We are life-long learners, who put that thirst for Truth at the service of our apostolic efforts.

For more information, please contact Rose Folsom at InquiryVeritas510@gmail.com.

Life Corner

Every Life is Worth Living—During the coming weeks, pray especially in gratitude for the precious gift of life we all share. Prayer cards (in both English and Spanish) are available at the front entrance of the church.

"Give us love for all people, especially the most vulnerable, and help us bear witness to the truth that every life is worth living."

Every Saturday morning at 6:45am—Come and pray the Rosary, led by our parish priests, in front of 900 S. Washington Street in Falls Church, for the protection and sanctity of human life.

Former Parishioner's New Catholic Novel

Sister Allison Regina Gliot, FSP, former parishioner of Saint James and daughter of our previous Deacon Ed, is publishing her first Catholic novel this month.

The Curse He Chose asks the question: is any soul beyond saving? Urban fantasy meets the Christian drama of sin and redemption in this genre-bending vampire novel perfect for ages 14+. Learn more about her other books for children and teens at gliot.pauline.org.

Moms Meet Up Group

Recently, the Moms Meet Up group gathered for a special presentation by Mary Anne Wahle, style consultant from Your Best Style, who offered wisdom and inspiration on reclaiming personal style in the midst of motherhood.

Rooted in joy, dignity, and practicality, her message was a meaningful encouragement to those navigating the early years of parenting. We are thankful for her presence and for the vibrant community of mothers and little ones who filled the room with warmth.

All new and current moms of babies and toddlers are invited to join our Moms Meet Up group to connect with other parish moms (with babies and toddlers in tow). We meet weekly at playgrounds and coffee shops. In addition, we plan special like local trips and guest speakers.

Join us when you can! We would love to meet you. Email Ally at dickmanallyson@gmail.com or Adele at adele1@gmail.com to learn more or get on our email list.
