On The Way

The Apostles: Saint Matthew

Only the synoptic Gospels mention Matthew as one of the Twelve Apostles. And only Matthew himself tells us anything more – and that's only one verse. It's fair to say that Matthew has an importance in the Church's history and in Catholics' imagination out of proportion to his mentions in Scripture. This outsized importance comes from two things: his Gospel and his vocation.

First, the Gospel of Matthew. It is the first book of the Gospels in your bible because, as traditionally held, it was the first Gospel written. So, it enjoys importance not only as a Gospel but as the first.

Matthew was a tax collector and, as such, he would have been interested in numbers, precision, and balance. So, it shouldn't surprise us that Matthew's Gospel is tightly structured and organized. Matthew was also Jewish and wrote his Gospel for a Jewish audience. So, he repeatedly explains that such-and-such happened or was said to fulfill (a word used 15 times in his Gospel) what Israel's prophets had foretold. Ever attentive to accounting for debts and payments, Matthew makes it clear that God has paid his promissory note, has fulfilled the debt of His prophecies. In short, His promise of Israel's Messiah has been fulfilled.

Second, his vocation story. Only Matthew tells this story. And it's the only thing he tells us about himself, as if it's the only thing we need to know about him. The scene is deceptively simple: "As Jesus passed on from there, he saw a man called Matthew sitting at the tax office; and he said to him, 'Follow me.' And he rose and followed him" (Mt 9:9). From that one verse we can learn about Matthew and discipleship in general.

Jesus was passing on from there. The moment and opportunity was not going to last forever. An investment decision needed to be made now. Meanwhile, Matthew is sitting at the tax office. He's a tax collector, a man who makes himself rich by working for the Romans. He's one of the most detestable members of society. Unlike the other Apostles we've met so far, Matthew doesn't exhibit any signs of devotion or awaiting the messiah. Indeed, he's in cahoots with the occupying forces, raising money from his own people for them.

Nevertheless, Jesus calls him. Saint Bede says that Jesus calls Matthew miserando atque eligendo – by having mercy on him and choosing him. (Pope Francis chose that phrase for his episcopal motto.) Matthew becomes a disciple not on any merits of his own but because Jesus sees him, has mercy on him, and calls him. A disciple must know, first and foremost, that Christ has had mercy on him. He must know Christ's mercy. Without that knowledge, he has nothing to say.

Jesus' command to Matthew is simple: Follow me. Now, we shouldn't imagine Jesus speaking these words with a big booming voice that echoed with divine resonance. He speaks them as a man to a man. He speaks these words simply but in that convincing manner that drew so many others to him. A disciple listens for our Lord's voice, no matter how simply it might come to him.

Follow me. Matthew comes to know and to teach the full meaning of those words. To follow Jesus requires setting aside our way of life. It means braving the harassment and jeering that will inevitably come. It means more than just going where He goes. It means to put on Christ's mind, to be transformed by the renewal of the mind.

Matthew's promptness is enviable. He had probably already seen and heard Jesus in the little town of Capernaum. But that was all preliminary to this time of choosing. He saw the investment opportunity, he calculated the risks, and he rated them as worthwhile. And he rose and followed him.

Lay Dominicans

Is God Calling You to be a Lay Dominican

You are invited to join the St. Mary Magdalene Lay Dominicans for prayer, fellowship, and discussion on Sunday, June 21st, from 5:00pm-6:45pm in the Parish House.

Lay Dominicans are single or married members of the Dominican Order who have responded to a call to live the Dominican way of life in their own families and occupations. The Dominican charism is one of prayer, study, community, and apostolate. Of these, study is perhaps the most distinctive element, as Dominicans are constantly called to study scripture, the teachings of the Church, and contemporary issues in the light of Faith. We are life-long learners who put that thirst for Truth at the service of our apostolic efforts.

For more information, please contact Rose Folsom at InquiryVeritas519@gmail.com.

Stewardship—A Gift of Time, Talent, and Treasure

Saint James Legacy Fund

The Saint James annual budget covers all of the parish's normal operating expenses, but it doesn't cover the major capital improvements that are needed from time to time to counter the long-term depreciation of our facilities. Periodically we need to replace roofs, heating/cooling systems, windows and doors, flooring, playgrounds, security systems, plumbing systems, and so forth. Our Church's sound system is aging out, as is the shingle roof on the School's main building.

In recent years, we have completed the following improvements:

- kneelers in our Church
- roofs on our Convent
- heating/cooling system in our Middle School building
- renovated the restrooms in the Church and eight of the 17 restrooms in our School
- renovated the Convent Chapel (see pictures below)

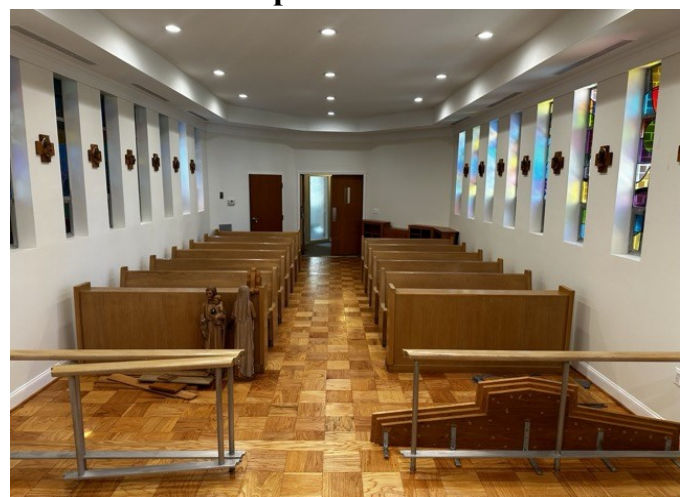

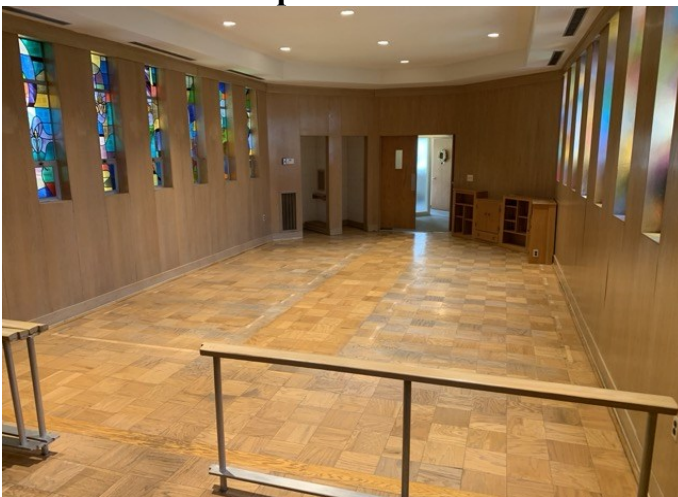

The Legacy of Saint James Capital Fund—otherwise known as our “Legacy Fund” or “Building Fund”—financially supports the preservation of our historic parish and school facilities. These funds can be used by the Pastor for capital improvements, renovations, and/or special projects needed for the parish or school. You can make a one-time donation or a recurring, weekly, monthly, or quarterly donation via our ParishSOFT link at <https://giving.myparishsoft.io/app/giving/FD-50> or make a check payable to Saint James Catholic Church with “Legacy Fund” or “Building Fund” in the memo line. Questions? Please contact Kathleen Anderson, Director of Development, at kanderson@stjamescatholic.org. Thank you for your generosity and support!

To donate, visit <https://giving.myparishsoft.io/app/giving/FD-50>. Thank you for your support!

Reminder on Faith Direct Site

As you know, our legacy online giving provider, Faith Direct, transitioned over to ParishSOFT Giving in early December. Thank you for your faithfulness and patience during this transition. Your participation in eGiving remains the most cost-effective way for our parish to benefit from your generosity.

Please note that the old Faith Direct link was turned off on June 1st. If you still haven't updated your favorites with the new link, <https://giving.myparishsoft.io/app/giving/FD-50>, and remove the old Faith Direct link because it will not redirect you to ParishSOFT.

You can view past gifts and make changes to current recurring gifts by logging into your account at <https://giving.myparishsoft.io/app/giving/FD-50> and clicking the Sign In (not GiveNow) tab, calling 866-930-4774, or emailing donorsupport@parishsoft.com.

Thank you for your generous and faithful support of Saint James.
